Joint Action Plan for Cooperation on International Infrastructure Construction

International Infrastructure Investment & Construction Forum (IICF) initiated by China International Contractors Association (CHINCA) has been successfully held on May 11-12, 2010 in Beijing, attracting representatives of contractors/builders associations from Indonesia, Korea, Romania, Russia, Sri Lanka and China. Through wide and in-depth communication, the associations unanimously agree that in post-financial-crisis era, contractors/builders associations from different countries should enhance mutual cooperation and join hands to progress infrastructure investment and economic recovery in respective countries. Against this background, all the signatory associations agree to take the following actions:

1. Exchange among signatory parties information of construction market trend, project planning, government policies and performance of member companies etc., and in particular, information of laws and regulations in connection with project construction and investment as well as national policies on labor and taxation.
2. Create favorable conditions or provide facilities for member companies of signatory parties to cooperate with each other and better utilize advantages in fund, technique, management and personnel to jointly undertake projects for mutual benefit; achieve mutual benefit between signatory associations by strengthening cooperation through their respective member companies in implementing projects.
3. Support and participate in the global or regional industrial conferences and events hosted by either signatory party, and organize personnel visits on an irregular basis to discuss on the hot topics of the international construction industry.
4. Strengthen research on engineering technical standards, actively avail respective platforms to publicize mutually applicable standards, and influence the making of international technical rules for common interests of contractors from different countries.
5. Regulate the conduct of member companies, advocate fair competition and faithful operation, boycott unfair competition and conduct against business ethics.
6. Instruct member companies to fulfill corporate social responsibility by providing high-quality and safe construction products and service, addressing importance to energy-saving and green construction, protecting employees' and partners' rights, and contributing to local community development so as to improve the sustainable development of economy

7. Publicize this Joint Action Plan on the website and publication of signatory parties, and bring in more contractors/builders associations to participate in this Joint Action Plan. Any forthcoming signatory party enjoys the same rights and obligations as the primary contracting parties.

The Joint Action Plan is written in English and each party holds one copy that enjoys the same effect.
